VISITORS FROM ALMA MATER

Many Young Lady Students Pay Their Respects to Gen. and Mrs. Harrison.

They Come from an Institution Around Which Center Treasured Remembrances of the College Days of the Gen, and His Wife.

Yesterday was a gala day at the residence of General Harrison, the occasion being a visit of eighty young ladies from the Oxford (O.) College for Young Ladies, who belong to the Carrie Harrison Club of that institution. Thirty-six years ago Miss Carrie Scott, now Mrs. Harrison, graduated from the college. It was during her college life that General Harrison wooed and won ber, and two years after her graduation they were married within its time-honored walls. president of the school, which was founded by Presbyterian influences, and ten years of his life were given to building up its present prosperity. Naturally, Mrs. Harrison has always felt a warm interest in the insprintion and its inmates, and when Ane Oxford girls formed their Republican club and paid her the compliment of selecting her name for its title, she sent them a prompt invitation to come on and visit her at her home in this city. Yesterday was selected for the visit. and the C., H. & D. furnished a handsome special ear in which the trip over was made, the girls leaving Oxford at 9 o'clock in the morning and reaching this city two hours later. Their arrival at the Union Station created considerable flutter, even in that threnged thoroughfare, the spectacle of eighty college girls with blooming cheeks and sparkling eyes, and brim full of eager interest in everything about them, being very much enloved by the crowd that was on hand to witness it. The young ladies were under the care of President and Mrs. Paye Walker, of the college, and Messrs. Wilson, Fisher and Dean, members of the faculty, and their names and

and went out to the Harrison residence on North Delaware street, where they were cordially re-ceived by General and Mrs. Harrison and their family. A handsome floral log cabin, made of Marechal Niel roses, with a roof of smilax and a smoke-plant growing from its chimney had preceded the delegation. It was a gift from the young ladies to Mrs. Harrison, and was displayed on a table in the front parlor, where the visitors were received. There was some little time spent in informal greetings, after which Miss Nellie F. Deem, of Union City. the youngest teacher in the school, and a clear and graceful speaker, came forward to where General and Mrs. Harrison stood and spoke as follows: Mrs. and General Harrison-It certainly gives us great pleasure to extend in behalf of the alma mater, and especially in behalf of our Republicat league, our greetings and sincere congratulations. When we look upon the portrait of your honored father in our chapel, we feel proud to belong to the school founded by himthe school in which you, Mrs. Harrison, passed your girlhood days-in which you received your aducation, in which you were courted and married. We feel especially proud to name our club in honor of her whom we may perhaps we may be allowed to call our college prother-in-law. It gives us great pleasure to honor with the greatest distinction ever conferred upon an American citizen. And now we wish to say that if, in the providence of God, the elec-

General Harrison responded for Mrs. Harrison and himself in a brief but happy little speech, in which he expressed the pleasure felt by both over the visit of the Oxford College girls. He spoke of their memories of the school and the happy days spent in its delightful surroundings, and said they both rejoiced in the prosperity of the college, renowned as it was for its scholarship and the Christian training of its pupils. In conclusion he thanked them for their visit and assured them that the kind words speken of Mrs. Harrison and himself were ly appreciated and would be long remem-

Following the addresses a pleasant hour was spent by the visitors at the house, examining the many curious and interesting the many curious and interesting things which have accumulated there since General Harrison's nomination. The visitors invaded the library and kept Gen. Harrison busy writing autographs, each of them securing one as a souvenir. All of them expressed great pleasure at being permitted to make the visit, and at leaving most of them added the wish that they might be able to repeat it at the White House after the election. Dr. Faye Walker, the president of the college, who accompanied the young ladies on their visit, and went back with them at 6 o'clock last evening, says that to all of them the trip will be a source of pleasure as long as it is remembered. The of pleasure as long as it is remembered. The college has a Frances Cleveland Club, of twenty members, which was invited to join the excursion yesterday, but did not accept. A pleasant feature of the trip was the induction of the Carrie Harrison Club into the Lincoln League by Secretarise Smith and Roach.

Real Estate Market.

The real estate market was brisker than usual the last week. There was an increased demand for property, the total number of deeds recorded during the week being sixty-four, representing property valued at $107,081.67. The largest transfer, and yet one of no particular significance, was that of Chandler & Taylor's foundry to Chandler, Taylor & Co., a reorganized corporation, for $20,000. Wm. A. Ketcham, as trustee, sold to Harry Milligan twenty-four unimproved lots in Beaty's addition for $15,000, and Samuel Gray sold to David S. Gray the residence at the corner of Pratt and Delaware streets for $10,000. Quite a number of Woodruff Place lots changed hands at an average price of $1,000.

MUST REPAIR THE STREETS.

Emphatic Order Issued to Natural-Gas Companies by the Street Commissioner.

The horrible condition in which the streets of Indianapolis have been for two months, and the seeming disposition of the several natural-gas companies to take no step toward putting them to repair, impressed upon the city officials the necessity of making some positive move toward having the companies obey their contract with Her father, Dr. John W. Scott, was the first | the city. There is not a street in the city which has not been torn up by the natural-gas companies but what is out of repair. Many on which mains were laid two months ago are still unrebowldered, and in places are not passable for heavy wagons. The Council has several times attempted to compel the companies to put the streets in condition, but has not been able to accomplish anything on account of some hindrances. On Sept. 24, a resolution was passed by that body directing the companies to fill the trenches, and the councilmen believed, at the time, that there would be no more diffi-The resolution provided that if the gas companies did not at once comply with the order, which included repairing of the streets, the city engineer should stop all further excavating by them. The street commissioner was also to have the streets restored and repairs made, and to collect the costs off the companies in the event the latter failed to do the work. The resolution passed the Council by a unanimous vote, but when it reached the Board of Aldermen, representatives of the companies appeared before the committee on streets and alleys of that body and asked that no action be taken until they had an opportunity to make an expla-nation. The result has been the resolution is still in the hands of the committee, and the companies have not appeared to show cause for their delay. Every day for the last three weeks there have been complaints about this matter made by citizens to the Mayor and street commissioner.

In view of the seeming impossibility of getting any compulsory measure through the Board of Aldermen in time to have the repairs made this fall, Mayor Denny concluded to exercise the authority invested in him by the natural-gas ordinance. resterday he directed Street Commissioner Rouey to take such steps as would compel the companies to repair the streets. Immediately upon rece iving the order the street commissioner issued the following proclamation to each of the three companies:

OFFICE OF STREET COMMISSIONER, }
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27, 1888. To the Indianapolis Natural-gas Company, Consumers' Gas Trust, and the Broad Eipple Natural-gas

By direction of the Mayor of the city of Indianapolis, I hereby notify you, and each of you, that all excavations made in, along or across the streets of said city prior to Oct. 20, 1886, by either of said companies, their servants, agents or contractors, in laying gas pipes must be repaired, filled up, rebowldered and otherwise restored to as good a condition for public travel as they were in before said excavations were made, within ten days from Oct. 29, 1888. If any street in bad condition shall remain neglected at the expiration of said time, the company making said excavations and failing to make said repairs will be prosecuted for each and every violation of this notice, that is for every bad hole thus remaining; and in addition to said prosecution, the city will at once put a force of men to work repairing all such neglected excavations, and bring suit upon the bonds of said companies, respectively, for the cost of such repairs and for damages.

Repairs to alleys may be made at any time within ten days from the expiration of the time above limited for making repairs to streets. C. S. Roney.

Street Commissioner.

The order will be served upon the officers of the companies to-morrow morning, and Mr. Roney says he will see that it is obeyed to the letter. The members of the Council, so far as they have expressed themselves, indorse the Mayor's action, and think if it is rigidly enforced the streets can all be put in good condition before winter.

JUDGE RITTER'S ORDER.

It Completely Removes Gruelle and His Gang from Control of the Labor Signal. The Labor Signal case was finally disposed of by special Judge Ritter yesterday, who appointed a receiver for the property of the Co-operative Printing Company and enjoined Thomas Gruelle and John Bodenmiller from ever again having anything to do with its affairs. The main points of the Judge's order are as follows:

"The said pretended lease in the name of said Gruelle for the benefit of said Gruelle and Bodenmiller is fraudulent and void, and is hereby canceled and set aside, and said Gruelle and Bodenmiller are perpetually enjoined from using any of the property, books, and books of account, contracts, subscription lists, type, cases, and all other property received of and from said defendant company, and belonging to said corporation, whether obtained from said company or from other persons, under the name of T. M. Gruelle & Co., and they are further perpetually enjoined from the use of said Labor Signal, and its subscription lists or copy thereof, and from directly or indirectly publishing any newspaper under the name of the Labor Signal. Francis H. Pellett is hereby appointed receiver for said defendant corporation, and he is hereby authorized and directed to take immediate possession of said paper, the books of said corporsession of said paper, the books of said corpor-ation, books of account of said corporation, and of said Labor Signal so far as they are con-nected with the publication of said paper.

"He is directed to take possession of all con-tracts and subscription lists of the said paper, which pertain to the publication thereof. As soon as practicable he is to make a report to this court of the property and effects coming into his hands; and said Gruelle and Bodenmiller are hereby ordered to surrender to said receiver. spon demand, all the property of said company, and to account to said receiver for all moneys received by them for or on account of said Labor Signal, as above enum-erated, and said Gruelle and Bodenmiller are npon an American citizen. And now we wish to say that if, in the providence of God, the election is in your favor, no congratulations will be more sincere than those extended by the Carrie Harrison Club. jurisdiction is retained in this cause, for the purpose of stating an account between said de-fendant company and said Gruelle and Bodenmiller, and for the purpose of receiving reports and directing the receiver in this cause until the matters in his hands shall be finally disposed of."

After the order had been entered the attorneys for Gruelle and Bodenmiller made a motion for a new trial. It was promptly overruled, and an appeal was then taken to the Supreme Court. The appeal bond was signed by Thomas Gruelle, John Bodenmiller, Thomas Madden, Alexander McCleary and Leonard Bodenmiller. The suit brought by Langstaff to foreclese a mortgage on the property, alleged to be held by the Central Labor Union, did not figure in yesterday's proceeding at all. finally disposed of."

Direct Evidence as to Purchase. Francis Dugan, of Clyde, O., is an old soldier, and lost one eye while in the service. He was in Illinois lately gathering evidence to enable him to get a pension, and on his return home he him to get a pension, and on his return home he reached this city Thursday without means to take him any further. He says he started up town from the depot and inquired of a well-dressed man upon the street the direction to Republican headquarters, intending to go there and apply for transportation home, and that the stranger, after finding out who he was and his condition, said to him that if he would take an oath to vote the Democratic ticket he would be given a good place to stay until after the election, and would be supplied with money to go home with. Dugan refused, and tried to find out the stranger's name, but could not. He met some G. A. R. men, who procured for him a ticket to his home.

a ticket to his home. The Adkinson Case Continued. The argument in the Adkinson divorce case was to have been heard by Judge Taylor yesterday, but on account of the sickness of the defendant the case went over until Tuesday next. Shot Accidently by His Brother. James Moss, colored, fourteen years of age, was accidently shot last night by his brother while they were playing with a shotgun, at their home, No. 300 Douglas street. His right leg was badly lacerated just below the knee, but it is thought that amputation of the limb will not be necessary. Mrs. Hollywood Robbed. A burglar entered Mrs. Hollywood's home east of the city early yesterday morning and stole a gold watch valued at $200, a gold ring, other articles, and considerable money.

MUNKACSY'S GREAT PAINTING.

The Christ on Calvary in Indianapolis-Something of Picture and Painter.

The exhibition of Munkaesy's wonderful painting, "Christ on Calvary," opened to the public, at Plymouth Church, last evening. There was a "first view," for which invitations were sent, in the afternoon, at which many of the leading clergymen, members of the press and prominent society people were present. As one enters the auditorium and looks upon the great canvas which fills the batire pulpit space, he is apt so forget for a moment that he is looking upon a picture; the figures before him seem like living persons on a stage. There seems an actual atmosphere in the painting; it appears as if one might walk up to and around the crosses and mingle with these people of nearly nineteen centuries ago. As a master of the art of composition, and the effects of light, shade and atmosphere, Munkacsy has few rivals. As a colorist, he has none. By able critics he is ranked as the greatest living artist, and by many, his works are considered superior to the pictures of the venerated old masters. His most noted paintings are the "Christ before Pilate" and the "Christ on Calvary"-both now owned in this country, by John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia. The "Christ on Calvary" illustrates the 33d, 44th and 46th verses of St. Luke:

"And when they were come to the place which is called Calvary, there they crucified Him and the malefactors, the one on the right hand, the other on the left. And it was about the sixth hour, and there was a darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour. " And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said: 'Father, into thy hands I commit my

The three crosses are at the extreme right of the picture. The central cross, on which hangs the Savier, is illuminated by a flash of light breaking through the dark clouds that veil the sky. The figure of Christ is a marvelous piece of painting, and no one who sees it can ever forget it. Munkacey's ideal of Christ differs from that of any painter who has preceded him. He represents the Savior as a man of strong character but great self-control, rather than as a man of excessive meekness, with a suggestion of weakness, which is the type most artists have evolved. In the painting, "Christ before Pilate," one may study this ideal more satisfac-torily, perhaps, than in the "Christ on Calvary;" but in the latter picture there is wonderful power in the face which is raised toward heaven, with an expression of suffering glorified by the consciousness that the Divine will is being ac-

At the foot of the cross are Mary, the mother of Christ, Mary Magdalene and Mary, the mother of James and Joses, near whom stand St. John and Joseph of Arimathea. This is a most impressive group, in which are expressed love, sympathy and the deepest anguish. Beyond are Roman soldiers, scribes, priests, Pharisees and a vast crowd, attracted, for the most part, by morbid curiosity. Almost every phase of human expression is depicted in these faces-batred, triumph, indifference, doubt, and in one or two instances by repentance and dawning faith. But this gives a very insufficient idea of the picture. As one looks at it he constantly discovers new elements of interest, and the figures grow to seem even more real than at first sight.

The painter of the great picture was born in Hungary about forty-five years ago. When four years old he was left an orphan, and his early life was a struggle with poverty and mis-fortune. He was first a carpenter's apprentice. earning about a dollar a week for six days' labor of about fifteen hours a day. His first essay with the brush was ir decorating the large chests of drawers which are usually an indispensable portion of a Hungarian bride's trosseau. He found difficulty in obtaining art instruction, being turned away from several great schools to which he sought admission, partly because the schools were crowded, but mainly because the applicant was door. He toiled on without the coveted instruction until he schieved a position higher than that of any master in the schools which refused him. To-day, wealthy, famous, ennobled by the Austrian Emperor, and sought after by the highest society, he can look back upon a career in which the contrasts of life have been most extreme; in which the events have been most romantic and in which the successes have been most exceptional. His pictures, though commanding enormous prices are in great demand. Examples of his art are owned by the Emperor of Austria; Dom Pedro, of Brazil; Prince Demidoff, of St. Petersburg, and in many notable public and private galleries. Several of his pictures are in this country, in the collections of the late W. H. Vanderdilt, William Astor, Jay Gould, August Belmont, George I. Seney, Judge Hilton, and the Lenox Library and Metropolitan Museum, of New York; W. T. Walters, of Baltimore; Gov. Ames, of Massachusetts; ex-Gov. Alger, of Michigan; John Wanamaker, H. C. Gibson and Mrs. H. Wilstach, of Philadelphia. There was a fine example also in the A. T. Stewart collection.

AFFAIRS OF THE CHURCHES.

Close of the Session of the Olive Branch Lutheran Synod.

The Olive Branch Synod held its final session vesterday afternoon at the First Lutherau Church. Reports of several committees were received and adopted. The Rev. Jacob Keller preached the preparatory sermon for the communion services, which are to take place this morning. His text was from the tenth Psalm, verses 15-17. Resolutions were passed thanking the pastor and members of the First Lutheran Church and other friends for hospitalities extended to members of the synod, and also thanking the daily press for their publication of the daily business of the synod. Rav. Jaco b W. Kapp will preach this morning, and after the sermon there will be communion services. night Rev. H. K. Fenner will preach the ordination sermon, after which Rev. C. Gastrock will be ordained and Peter Bowman and John Stein will be licensed to preach. The powers of the licensed and ordained ministers are very nearly the same, except that the lipresident of the synod. The ceremony of ordination consists in reading selections of the Scriptures and prayer. The candidate avows his belief in the Augeburg Confession as a correct exhibition of the fundamental doctrine of the divine word and the faith of the church, and piedges himself to strictly conform to the doc-trines and teachings of the Lutheran Church, after which the president and examining committee go through the ceremony of laying on of hands. A certificate of ordination is given the candidate, and all the ministers present give him the right hand of fellowship. Mr. Gastrock is about thirty years of age, and a graduate from the Basle (Germany) University.

No attention was paid to them, but the major, on his way home, started toward the drunken crowd. As he came up with them one of the number struck him from behind a blow on the head, which felled him to the sidewalk. All five of them then jumped on to him, and were kicking and beating him in a most brutal menner. A friend of the unfortunate Republican came along and the drunken gang took to their heels.
